

MAN'S TWO MINDS.

To Make an Evenly Balanced Person Both Must Be Used.

Expounding a theory that man has two minds, or a double consciousness—objective and subjective—Mr. Benson has compared the two activities to an upper and a lower room separated by a trapdoor. Dreams are due to the subjective consciousness working without check from the objective consciousness.

The man who usually claims to have an evenly balanced mind is the one who has shut the trapdoor and remains in the upper room, and those who have closed the trapdoor and remain in the lower room are commonly found in lunatic asylums.

The man of really even balance either remains between the two rooms or keeps the trapdoor well oiled.

Napoleon, in the lower room, conceived ideas for ruling Europe and in the upper room put his ideas into practice; Raphael created combinations of colors and then expressed them on canvas; and Beethoven in the lower room composed his strains and in the upper room reproduced the notes on paper.

The events of childhood are remarkably clear in the recollection of very old people, though present happenings are forgotten. This may be explained by the decay of the objective consciousness, and it is curious that as this decays the subjective consciousness becomes more acute.—New York Press.

SHORT CIRCUITS.

Mission of the Fuse When the Wires Become Crossed.

"Another short circuit!" One of the commonest reports heard in all electrical works.

A "short circuit" means that the electric wires have become crossed or connected so as to form a bypath or short of comparatively low resistance, through which so much of the electrical current passes as practically to cut out that part of the circuit through which the current originally flowed. In other words, a "short circuit" has replaced the normal circuit, which may be considered a long circuit. The cutting out of the resistance of the long line permits the power to rush over this path of low resistance, and if the apparatus were not protected by the fuses or circuit breaker the electrical machinery would do itself serious harm.

To prevent serious effects from accidental short circuits of electric lighting wires in buildings a "fuse" is inserted in the circuit just inside the building. In case a nail or some other falling object short circuits the electric wires in the house this fuse blows out—namely, melts out—and throws the circuit open so that no electricity can flow through the wires in the house until the "short" has been found and corrected.—New York World.

Made a King's Leg Shorter.

In "Random Recollections" by Catton Woodville, the English war artist, is a story about Edward VII. Woodville painted an equestrian portrait of the king, who, says the artist, was greatly pleased with it until he examined the legs.

"Oh, Mr. Woodville," he said, "what a pair of magnificent legs you have given me! They are simply splendid. But look at my short ones. You will have to make these in the portrait shorter."

"I pointed out," says Woodville in telling the yarn, "that in some of his photographs his legs appeared to be quite as long as I had painted them, but no argument could convince him. A piece had to come off, and it did."

Hildebrand's Gate.

St. Paul by the Tiber, last of the Roman basilicas, which has been restored, has a great bronze gate inlaid with silver, presented in 1870 by the Roman Consul Pantaleo. His age and order of the gate was the archdeacon and the abbot of St. Paul, who happened to be in Constantinople, where metal players alone could be found. The gate's name is inscribed on the gate, "Hildebrand's Venerabilis Monarchus at Archidiaconus." In 1870 the "venerable Hildebrand" did not mean much, but he became Pope Gregory VII.—Exchange.

Patience.

Mr. Schmalz, noted for his table noises, hurried into a Broadway hotel at the lunch hour and took a seat.

"Come over here with us," called one of several acquaintances at a nearby table.

"Oh," said Schmalz, "all I want is some soup."

"You can have soup at this table just as well as at that one," said the other. "And we'll give you a respectful hearing."—New York Press.

Not an Original Idea.

Four hundred years ago the idea of numbering houses originated in Paris, though it was not until 1789 that the system became general.

Left at the Post.

The Professor's Wife (to the Professor, who has just come in from a walk)—"What have you done with your umbrella and Fido?" The Professor (trying to remember)—"What?—I'm waiting a minute—oh, yes, precisely. You see, my hat blew off, and I didn't want to have the poor little beast run with me after it, so I stuck the umbrella in the ground somewhere and the Fido to it. I suppose they are still there."

Throw Out The Line

Give Them Help And Many People Will be Happier.

"Throw Out the Life-Line!" Weak kidneys need help.

They're often overworked—they don't get the poison filtered out of the blood.

Will you help them?

Dean's Kidney Pills have brought benefit to thousands of kidney sufferers. Mending urinary organs, they are worth.

Mrs. L. Newman, Madison, N. C., says: "I consider Dean's Kidney Pills a fine backache and kidney remedy. I can say that I have been used to my home with good results. One of my family had a lame and swollen back, together with kidney troubles. Dean's Kidney Pills brought relief. I have never had need of Dean's Kidney Pills since, but I have often advised their use to those who are in doubt. I am sure they will do."

Antiquities in Danger.

Hidden away in the national museums and libraries, and zealously guarded are a number of priceless manuscripts and books which, but for a fortunate chance, might have been lost to the world. The chief treasure of a museum at St. Petersburg is the oldest known Greek manuscript of the New Testament, which was about to be burned by the monks of a Syrian monastery, when, by a lucky chance, one of the priests, struck with the antiquity of the manuscript, interceded in time to save what had been thought valueless.

Whooping Cough.

"About a year ago my three boys had whooping cough and I found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the only one that would relieve their coughing, and whooping spells. I continued this treatment and was surprised to find that it cured the disease in a very short time," writes Mrs. Archie Dalrymple, Crooksville, Ohio. For sale by all dealers. Adv.

Columbus' Landing Place.

Columbus first landed on an island of the Bahama group off the coast of Florida, which was named San Salvador. He afterward made explorations among other of the West Indian islands and along the coast of Cuba. He died, however, without ever knowing that he had discovered a new continent. The lands he had found he supposed were the outlying islands of the East Indies.

Sick Headache.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. Y., was a victim of sick headache, and despondency, caused by a badly weakened and debilitated condition of her stomach, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She says, "I found them pleasant to take, also mild and effective. In a few weeks' time I was restored to my former good health." For sale by all dealers. Adv.

Old Things Are Better.

"I mean to write a sermon on this text some time," said the prettiest woman in the group. "We are all going crazy nowadays over novelty—new fashions, new inventions, seeing new places. But I tell you the old things are half the time better—the old friends, always the good old furniture, which is so often discarded for newer patterns, not half so really nice. And I love a good old dress that I am used to and that has become a sort of part of me. And old shoes—there anything on earth quite so comfortable and delightful as a pair of soft, flexible old shoes?"—Leslie's.

Stories of Shaw.

One of Bernard Shaw's dramatic criticisms is the shortest on record. It was about a play called "Poor Jonathan," and Shaw's notice was simply "Poor Jonathan."

After the production of his first play, "Widowers' Houses," he met with so mixed a reception that he wrote, "I became infamous in a single night, and if the play did not achieve a success it created an uproar."

Foreign Relations.

"What does the committee on foreign relations have to do?" "I can't exactly say. But if it has to keep track of the foreign relations that our rich girls acquire by marriage it has some responsibility!"—Washington Star.

Cold Feet.

"They say that a man who has cold feet is pretty sure to have an active brain."

"Yes, either that or a well filled purse."—Chicago Record-Herald.
